

Provo City Lab & Authentic Assessment

Creating Feedback Opportunities in Project-Based Coursework

Suggestions

Have everything ready to go a week before the event (talk with risk management, print off flyers and other documents, etc.)

Continue to promote social media channels at events

Advertise events better to attract even more people

Provide more opportunities for meaningful one-on-one engagement throughout the event
Provide more opportunities for meaningful one-on-one engagement throughout the event
Provide more opportunities for meaningful one-on-one engagement throughout the event
Provide more opportunities for meaningful one-on-one engagement throughout the event
Provide more opportunities for meaningful one-on-one engagement throughout the event

Display big poster showing routes

Helping Students Learn to Narrate Experience & Competency

Competency-Based STAR Stories

- Situation
- Task
- Action
- Result/Reflection

Professor Rowan,

I was in your Provo City Lab class last fall semester, and I want to let you know what a significant help the job-prep portion of your class has been to me. I just had an interview with Disney for a design internship, and I cannot tell you how thankful I am to have had my STAR Stories to rely on—they were a huge help, and the interviewer let me know how impressed she was with how put-together and relevant my responses were.

In all, my interview with Disney went really well, and no matter what ends up happening, I am so sincerely thankful to you for helping me prepare for instances such as this—I couldn't have been better prepared.

